Conference and Practice Day

Aesthetic and Adhesive Dentistry in General Practice

Chris Orr graduated from the Queen's University of Belfast and has now become one of the UK's leading aesthetic and cosmetic dentists. He is the Past President of British Academy of Cosmetic Dentistry and is also a course director for Advanced Dental Seminars.

He is a judge for the FMC Private Dentistry Awards which recognise excellence in private dental practice and is also Chairman of the judging panel of the FMC Smile Awards, which recognise clinical excellence in creating beautiful smiles.

Learning Objectives

1. To examine today's restorative materials and see how adhesive, cementation, and ceramic options can be best utilised for the aesthetic restoration of anterior and posterior teeth.
2. To discuss current simplified approaches to the placement of anterior and posterior composite.
3. To revisit traditional approaches to tooth preparation for anterior and posterior indirect restorations.
4. To show how veneers and onlays can be an aesthetic and conservative alternative to traditional indirect restorations.
5. To examine specific evidence behind these techniques and critical appraisal of the research;
6. To compare restoration longevity for different restorations.
7. To give practitioners real life statistics to share with their patients when treatment planning.

This meeting will cover ECPD development outcomes A and C

DEVON INDEPENDENT PRACTITIONERS' GROUP

Like-minded dentists, living and practising in Devon

Our history

The group was formed in 1999 by a like-minded group of dentists living and practising in Devon.

Initially, the group was called the South Devon Independent Practitioners' Group reflecting its origins in and around Torbay and the South Hams. However, over the past few years the membership has increased considerably and in order to reflect the widening geographical spread of our membership the group was re-named the Devon Independent Practitioners' Group in late 2005.

Our aim

We aim to provide events, both professional and pastoral.

The group arranges clinical days and presentations given by high profile and respected speakers in comfortable surroundings . . . and quality refreshments provided!

Why not receive the benefits of membership?

Membership of our group costs a one off joining fee of £80.

Thereafter, membership is £15 per month for Dentists or £10 per month for all other Dental Care Professionals.

All paid-up members are entitled to attend our meetings and seminars (and many of the social events) at no additional charge.

We aim for CPD accreditation for all our educational meetings and certificates are made available at the end of each qualifying meeting.
